Dear reader,

these sites have been continuously online for ~20 years, by now.

A great idea was: open science, open resources – for feedback, quotation, and discussion. – English on demand.

As I got only one single comment from Canada within 10 years, while download rates were exceeding 9 GBs p. a., I felt, the experiment had not met the corresponding partners.

Subsequently, I offered parts of the information for free, others subject to remuneration. Not one item was voluntarily payed for, even if they have always been rather inexpensive.

After excessive illegal downloads, in 2016 I decided to leave only free articles on the server, others may be ordered.

In case you wish to find all new articles and read the recent updates, you might appreciate this:
